74, Gaistord Street,
London. N. W.

7th June, 1899

My Dear Friend — Warm thanks for your esteemed favour — I bow to your decision — and sincerely hope I can see a score of reasons in favour of the hotel — but we wish you to know our anxious we are for your comfort and happiness — Kindly let me know the exact day you will arrive in London — and have and hear if possible — and write to you to-shall see you at once and then (with a due regard to your own wishes and convenience) we can arrange for a little time together — As we are some distance from London we must fix time for your coming to see us, in case we might be out of the way at random — If we can secure one day for a drive & run, in a short time, show you more of London & its neighbourhood than you have yet seen — as I know every nook and corner —

We rejoice that you both had such a pleasant voyage — All your friends will be delighted to see you — and you do well to make this trip one of recreation and friendship — away from the excitement of public affairs. I need a little rest myself — for I have lectured five nights running since 24th of last August — I spoke at Chesterfield, Stone & Ellesmere last week - and am at Cardiff next monday & Tuesday - after which I shall be idle for about seven weeks —

Be sure and write when you day is fixed for coming to London —

With all kind regards to yourself & yours

Your friend, right-heartedly, Henry Vincent —

William Lloyd Garrison Esq —
